MASTER'S OF OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH DAKOTA MASTER'S IN OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY program in Casper, Wyoming provides an opportunity for high quality education in a small class environment with clinic-based faculty and learning experiences in central Wyoming. Benefits of the UND/CC OT program are:

- Easy access to high quality, competitively priced education
- Master's degree completion after two years of pre-requisites and three years of professional OT course work
- Small class sizes providing program-wide peer support and interaction
- Professional advisement and mentoring relationships with faculty, staff and administration at UND and Casper College
- Practical hands-on programming and individualized instruction
- Early application of learning through fieldwork experiences at outstanding local and regional facilities
- Innovative technology to facilitate education and networking with the Grand Forks campus
- Access to UND services, including financial aid, admissions, library services and the Graduate School
- Strong community service and personal development through student and professional organizations
- UND's excellent reputation of training well prepared therapists for entry level in all practice areas, including new and emerging therapies
